

Special PUBLIC SCHOLARS PROJECT Programs

The New Jersey Council for the Humanities (NJCH), in conjunction with nine New Jersey congressional district offices, is sponsoring a special series of Public Scholars Project (PSP) programming across the state in September and October.

Each congressional district office was invited to choose a PSP program to bring public humanities opportunities to each district around the state allowing participants to explore human history, values, culture, and beliefs through the lens of a particular topic.
